

Axis Construction is proud to announce our most recent project completion. We assisted the Filoli family in refinishing their kitchen, thereby increasing the value of their home by more than £30,000 with a £10,000 investment.

Here's how John Filoli described the results of the project: "Axis Construction fulfilled all our expectations professionally and quickly at a value-packed cost. Thanks to them, we were able to sell our house at a very good price."

This project adds to the growing list of successful projects completed.

Last year, Axis Construction completed a retaining wall for J. Heddock's hillside home, reducing soil erosion and enhancing the appearance of the home. Soon after, Heddock decided to add a second story onto his home. He turned again to Axis Construction.

When asked why he chose Axis, Heddock said: "Axis turned a bad situation into a good one, for a lot less than I expected. I had been thinking about increasing the size of my home for several years. Since the expense for the retaining wall was less than expected, and I had found such a good company, I decided to take the plunge and finally add onto my home!"

Also last year, Axis Construction replaced the roof of R Bergen. Bergen had survived the last rainy season with plastic sheeting protecting his roof. Because of the amount of rain, some water had seeped through damaging the house. Axis replaced the roof as well as the damaged wood.

In addition to kitchen, roofing, and retaining wall construction, Axis is licensed to do tile, bathroom, landscape and carpet work. We are your all-in-one home construction specialists. All work adheres to applicable building codes.

We hope you will think of us when considering home construction services.
