

the most recent cue point's number and then uses that number to retrieve the cue point's name from the `cuePointNames` property. The script then displays the cue point label as the text of the field sprite below the digital video.