Company Background:

CommerceNet is a non-profit consortium of its members whose mission is to create the global Internet marketplace -- the "Imarket." It is the premier arena in which leading individuals and companies are collaborating to transform the Internet into a global electronic marketplace by developing the Imarket's infrastructure, context and practices.

Presentation Overview:

The security showcase will show you how you can solve some of your organization's security vulnerabilities with products available today.

Speaker Background:

Dr. James M. Galvin is the Program Manager for Security at CommerceNet. He has been involved in network security activities for over 10 years, including designing and implementing multiple Internet reference implementations of secure technologies. His experience has made him an expert in creating integrated solutions to organizational security problems.
