

You are seeing this weird setup because your version of the MacOS Finder is older than v9.0 and doesn't support "Packages". You can just ignore the folder "Contents" which is usually hidden and simply doubleclick the alias file right next to this text clipping to start the application.