

SelfControl is an easy to use application for handling all kinds of personal events. It shows entries in daily, weekly or yearly overviews. Besides "normal" events it is capable to handle up to five types of recurring events as well as holidays. In addition it features to manage to do items of three different priorities. Task that are not already done are set forth each day.

Through its central input window for all kinds of events, its date selection window and the well designed user interface, SelfControl is a powerful tool in mananging personal events.