

Keyboard shortcuts

There are a bunch of keyboard shortcuts for the Rudder. Shortcuts for the menu items are listed in the menus (e.g. command-S is Save). Shortcuts for most dialog box items are displayed when you hold down the command key.

In the main preferences dialog you can also use these shortcuts:

- Up and down arrows move the Speed slider up and down.
  - Option up and down arrows move the Window Fringe slider up and down.
  - Enter and return select the Save button.

In the application preferences dialog you can also use these shortcuts:

- Up and down arrows move through the current application list.
- Left and right arrows select the previous and next application list.
- Enter and return select the Save button.

In the help dialog you can also use these shortcuts:

- Up and down arrows scroll the text up and down.
- Left and right arrows move to the previous and next topics.
- Page up and page down on the extended keyboard move the text one page up or down.

In addition, you can use these shortcuts anywhere in the Rudder:

- Help on the extended keyboard turns Balloon Help on and off.
- Command-? (or command-/) turns the cursor into a question mark. As long as the cursor is a question mark, when you select an item from a dialog box or menu, online help opens to the appropriate topic. To get the normal cursor back without selecting anything, just press command-? again.
