

Focus windows

This check box lets you turn window focusing on and off. If window focusing is on, Sloop will switch windows within the front application when the cursor moves over a window that isn't in the foreground. If window focusing is off, Sloop will never switch between windows within the front application.

For more specific control over window switching, leave this checkbox on and use the Application preferences dialog box to turn off window focusing in particular applications.