New Command.

The New command will open a blank 'untitled' graph window. You can then plot functions directly into this window either from the predefined functions menus or by using the Define Function dialog.