

All these people helped me in their own way to improve AutoCat™. Thousands of thanks to everyone.

Stéphane Galli drew the small cat. He is the best drawer I know.

Michael Thibault supported AutoCat™ from the very beginning, making more than a few suggestions and fixing a few mistakes in this documentation. (Don't forget, I'm French.) Watch out for this guy ! He could become a very good programmer.

I used a couple of tools which allowed me to save time. So, big thanks to :

- Dair Grant for his "Extension Shell"
- James W. Walker for "ShowIcon7"
- Paul Celestin fo "PICTButton"
- Lloyd Lim for "Default"

The first joke about automatically feeding the cat is copyright by MacFormat magazine. I used it with their permission, whether they know it or not.

For direct or indirect contributions, many thanks to (in no particular order):

Jim Luther, Scott Knaster, Mike Oldfield, you, Steven Paul Jobs, S2i, the writers of Inside Mac, the developers of Think C and ThinkReference, the developers of ResEdit, all those who reported bugs to me, all those who made suggestions, and all those who sent their shareware fee.
