This month What PC? is giving away top-notch hardware and software to improve your printouts and presentations. Thanks to Canon, we've got a pair of MultiPass 10 multi-function devices for two lucky winners. Fifteen runners-up will each receive a copy of Brøderbund Software's Print Shop Deluxe.

First prize

At only 360mm wide by 294mm deep, the Canon MultiPass 10 is one of the smallest multi-function units on the market. This versatile printer/fax/scanner/copier, reviewed in our August issue, combines high-quality printing (360x360dpi at two pages per minute) with simplicity of use and a sleek design. A must for any modern office.

The MultiPass 10 comes complete with Desktop Manager for Windows, an easy-to-use package for controlling every function via your PC. It also allows the machine to act either as a scanner or a PC-based fax system.

Runners-up

Supplied on CD-Rom and suitable for use with both Windows 3.1 and 95, Brøderbund's Print Shop Deluxe lets you design and print just about any kind of stationery. You can choose from a wide selection of pre-created cards, calendars, and certificates that are grouped together in several themes – and then tweak the design until it suits.

Alternatively, create a design from scratch using one of the templates provided. Any combination of text and graphics can be placed onto a template, and the wide range of clip-art means there is bound to be something suitable for almost every occasion.
