

Tom and Clint, two handsome heirs of a tremendous fortune because of the death of their father due to a cocaine overdose, must travel to Italy so they can get their inheritance. Their father had extremely perverse sexual habits. And, it would seem, the man wanted to teach his offspring the greatest sexual delights, even after his death. The first step was to get the young men to go to Italy. Once there, the young decedents discover more than just millions of dollars a series of video tapes in which their father takes part in most varied sexual marvels in excellent company. So, not only do they inherit his money, but also his sexual habits. So much money cannot be unnoticed by the local fortune hunters and, thus, Conchita, Maria and the Baroness weave a subtle cobweb to captivate these presumed suckers who are filthy rich and well-armed.
