ColorFall v1.1

by John Holder

ColorFall is a simple yet addictive game. Squares containing four different colors or patterns drop from the top of the screen. Move and rotate them so that you line up four or more of the same color in a row, in a column, diagonally or in a box. There are some surprises — the colors change randomly and lines of blocks suddenly disappear. Try to get as many points as you can before stacking the colors to the top!

Escape v2.0

by John Holder

Are diamonds your best friend? You're a greedy little guy who wants to pick up as many diamonds as you can. The catch: there are robots trying to kill you. Luckily, there are weapons lying around with the diamonds. Plus, the robots aren't very smart — if they run into each other, they explode. Destroy all the robots or collect all the diamonds to get to the next level.

Factory v1.1

by Patrick Calahan

Assemble various products for a factory. Send the correct components in the right direction on the assembly line. Be quick, because there are quotas to meet. Every day brings a new product and a new assembly line.

Hexmines v2.0

by Ingemar Rangnemalm

Clear the mine field in this military game with a unique twist. This mine-sweeper game uses hexagonal tiles instead of the traditional squares. Find a path from one end of the mine field to the other without clicking on any mines. There are three field sizes. You can place as many mines as you want on the field. This game is a blast!

As an extra option you can choose from the more traditional "Find all the mines" game.

Mac Video Poker v1.0.5

by Glen Seemann

This is a gambler's dream come true. Features include customizable displays — 30 different backgrounds and 10 different card backs! View complete statistics, including wins, losses and a graph of your winning hands. Test your luck by playing the "Double or Nothing" bonus game every time you win a hand.

Monitors FKey v1.0

by Matt Slot

Are you tired of opening the Monitor's Control Panel every time you want to change the resolution or color depth of your screen? With Monitors FKey, you don't have to any more. With one keystroke, a simple dialog box comes up, allowing you to change your monitor settings. It's easy to install — just drop it into your System folder.

Roll The Bones v3.2.0

by Mikael Sheikh

You'll be seeing spots with this Yahtzee-style game. Roll the dice and try to get several different combinations — such as three of a kind, a small straight or a full house. The real goal is getting the elusive "Five Bones" (five of a kind).

Includes online help with complete rules and scoring information. One to six players can play.

Hot Tip: You can re-roll twice if you don't like what you rolled.

Snavely! v1.0.1

by Karl Bunker

Stay alive in this reptilian adventure! Control two snakes who are trying to survive and protect their eggs. When the snakes cross over each other, a new egg is created. Watch out: there are nasty creatures who don't like snakes, including the Stomper and the Eggbeater who love to break your eggs. Keep both snakes on the screen or you'll lose them. Play by yourself and control both snakes, or play cooperatively with a friend.

Square Lake Crossing v1.1

by Mark Starlin

You've been contracted to build a bridge connecting the north and south shores of Square Lake. The problem is a rival company (Player Two) is trying to connect the east and west shores. You have to build your bridge before your opponent. In case your opponent gets too close, you're armed with two sticks of dynamite (for blowing up your opponent's bridge) and two intersections (for connecting your bridge to your opponent's).

Hot Tip: Straight sections get you to the other side faster, but curved sections are dynamite-proof.

Virus! v2.0

by FCPI Software

In this fast-paced game, a virus has taken over your computer and you need to stop it. It has multiplied and hundreds of little viruses are scurrying around your desktop, trying to make their way to your hard drive. Click on the viruses to stop them. For extra protection, a shield protects your hard drive, but only for a short time (it was damaged during the initial attack). A great game!

NOTE: This is only a game! There are no real viruses in this program.
