About AtomSoft

AtomSoft is a group of college students dedicated to bringing you windows games at shareware prices. So far, we have released Poker Wizard, The Bricks and The Caves. In the future we are planning Backgammon Tournament and an elaborate political science adventure game. We are also looking into possibility of developing more educational games for windows.

In trying to better serve you we ask that you please let us know what you think of our programs when you register. This allows us to get a better understanding of what you want to see and promotes the overall concept of shareware.

You can reach us at:

Object of the Caves

Let's first introduce the players:

Smily face: This is you

Evil P. Eye

Crazy T. Lights

W.C. hungry

The object of the game is to drop radioactive waste on top of the three monsters chasing you. If you hit the monster then the radioactive waste is reprocessed and the radioactive fire is out. Pick up those barrels and get points. For hitting the monsters you do NOT get any points. There are also objects on the beginning of each level that you can pick up

The objects are:

Master Key

Rare Stamp

Magna Carta

USA flag

Once you have killed all monsters, then you advance to the next level. The monsters will get faster from one level to the next.

You move with the up, down, left and right cursor keys. You drop the radioactive barrels with the space bar.

Note: You can drop only one barrel at the time
