

The Pets love me. At least, that's what Bob tells me. And why shouldn't they? I'm a fabulous photographer, right?

Wrong. The honest-to-Guccione truth is that I'm a terrible photographer -- one of those guys who cuts off the tops of heads and forgets to set the correct film speed. Fortunately, for guys like me -- guys who know that there's a man unhampered by poor motor control buried deep within -- there's Penthouse Virtual Photo Shoot 6.

The previous five editions of the Photo Shoot package have allowed Penthouses programmers to improve the format and work out the kinks. The photo shoot interface is elegantly simple -- nothing at all like real photography with all those confusing light meters, lenses and shutters. You simply click the mouse button to take a picture.
