

Specifies how the Video for Windows Converter processes a group of files. You can use the same settings for all files or the settings found in the individual files.

Bring Up Dialog

Displays the Conversion Settings dialog box for each file in the group so you can verify and edit the settings for each file. This is the default batch-formatting option.

Use This Format

Uses the current conversion settings to process the remaining files in the group.

Scan For Best Format

Scans each source file and uses the highest settings (common frame rate, highest-quality video format, and highest-quality audio format) found in each file for the corresponding converted file.
