

Ordering Information

Apple Media Tool

Order No. H0061LL/A

- Apple Media Tool and Runtime Maker software on seven 1.4MB floppy disks
- A CD-ROM disc that contains Apple Media Tool software Runtime Maker software, and four sample projects
- Apple Media Tool Getting Started Guide
- User's Guide
- Registration and warranty card

Note: For the Apple Media Tool Programming Environment, use Order No. R0535LL/A. The Apple Media Kit, which includes both products, can be ordered using Order No. B14535LL/A.

Technical Specifications

Apple Media Tool

- Based on an object-oriented, visual interface
 - Allows assembly of media elements and interactivity without scripting
 - Incorporates media elements such as QuickTime movies, PICT files, text, and sound files (and, AIFF, WAVE formats)
- Supports QuickTime technology on both Macintosh and Windows-based systems
- Works with Apple Media Tool Programming Environment

Runtime Maker

- Easy-to-use process for creating player files for both Macintosh personal computers and personal computers running Microsoft Windows

System requirements

- Authoring Environment
 - Macintosh IIci or higher, with at least 4MB of RAM (8MB recommended)
 - QuickTime 1.6.1
 - System software version 7.1 or later
 - A hard disk drive
 - An AppleCD 150, 300 CD-ROM drive, Apple SuperDrive floppy disk drive, or the PowerCD from Apple
- Player environment
 - For Macintosh: QuickTime 1.5 or later, a minimum of 2MB of RAM (not including operating system), system software version 6.0.7 or later
 - For Windows: Windows 3.1 (or Windows 3.0 with MME), QuickTime for Windows 1.1, a 386 or higher processor, graphics and sound support, and a minimum of 3MB of RAM (not including operating system)