

Provides a space for you to type your MSN member ID. This is the name you provided during signup that uniquely identifies you as an MSN member and that is associated with your password.

You must be an MSN member to connect to this site. If you are not currently an MSN member and would like to become one, click Help for more information.

Provides a space for you to type your MSN password. The text you type will appear as asterisks (*) so that your password can be kept confidential.

You must be an MSN member to connect to this site. If you are not currently an MSN member and would like to become one, click Help for more information.

Click this to find out how to get troubleshooting information if you are having problems connecting to this site, to find out where to get more information about MSN, and to find out how to become an MSN member.

Click this to have your member ID and password filled in automatically each time you connect to an Internet site that requires you to sign in to MSN.

This is the Help file for the MSN Sign In dialog box that appears if you are not currently an MSN member or if you are a member but have not yet signed into MSN and are trying to connect to an Internet site that requires you to have an MSN account.

If you are not currently an MSN member, but would like to become one, click What You Get With an MSN Membership for more information.

What you get with an MSN membership.

Signing in to MSN

You must be a member of The Microsoft Network (MSN) to connect to this Internet site. To verify that you are a member, you must provide your member ID and password.

If you are currently an MSN member and are having trouble connecting to this site, make sure that you have typed your member ID and password correctly.

If you are not an MSN member or are still having troubles connecting, click Cancel in the Sign In dialog box. When you click Cancel, a web page will appear that explains how to become an MSN member and how to troubleshoot problems you may be having connecting to this Internet site.

For more information about the benefits of becoming an MSN member, click What You Get with an MSN Membership.

What you get with an MSN membership.

What you get with an MSN Membership

The Microsoft Network brings the world of online information to your desktop. Whether you are interested in arts, entertainment, sports, health, fitness, business, computers, or current events, MSN organizes information on the World Wide Web so that you can easily find what you want.

When you become an MSN member, you get:

- Full access to the Internet
 - The latest headline, wheather, sports, and financial news
 - Services and support from major PC hardware and software vendors
 - Access to multimedia reference products
 - A sense of online community by using electronic mail, chats, and bulletin boards to communicate with others who share your interests
 - Much, much more from hundreds of other companies
- Go to the MSN home page at www.msn.com to preview the features you get with MSN and for additional information about becoming an MSN member.

