

Every time you surf the Internet, your Web browser quickly collects lots of little files and hides them on your computer, including cookies, cache files and more. Many of these you may not even be aware of! These "little" files (some can actually be quite large) can quickly add up, hogging disk space, clogging your computer and leaving your privacy in