

This month's applet is a very clever little number. It allows you to use two pictures, one large and one small, so users can navigate around the larger picture by using the smaller one which is indented. It's ideal for maps, where you have a large picture with few colours, but you want to be able to show at a large scale. We've included an example page to get you started. If you don't want to install the files you'll find them in the folder software/applet on the CD.
