

HTML Imager makes it easy to catalogue large collections online pictures or to produce online photo albums by generating HTML code for web pages showing all GIF and/or JPG pictures from the directory you select. Each picture is shown together with its file name, shown in alphabetical order and size. You can also select different background colours. Its handy preview feature lets you see the results before publishing.