

The best way to get your software masterpiece noticed by the world is to get it on the Internet. Put up your own Web site and submit the program to one of the many global Shareware sites - of which there are many. AddSoft can help considerably as it can batch upload your files and descriptions in the format recognised to each individual Shareware site requirements.