Information encapsulated in Meta-tags contains vital information about your Web site's identity, such as keywords associated with your Web site and a description. This information is hidden within your Web page's HTML code, but is not seen by visitors. Search engines use these meta tags to accurately index the Web sites held on their databases. Generate this information easily with Meta-tag Master.