

Sixth Tournament Results

Congratulations to all who entered the Sixth RoboWar Tournament. The tournament has become an international competition! Three of the twelve participants were from overseas. A total of 27 robots or teams entered, with combined entry fees of $97. Each winner will receive a prize of $10.00. The winners are:

Category	Winner	Robot(s)
Individual 1st	Antoine Duchateau Sylvestre
Individual 2nd	Stephen Linhart	◇Darling◇
Individual 3rd	Eric Foley	Dragon Knight
Team	Stephen Linhart	◇Darling #1◇ ◇Darling #2◇
Little League	Stephen Linhart	◇Lil Darling◇
Titan Class	Douglas Harris	z Death Penguin
Icon Contest	Eric Foley	Eye of Shorshirsh

Sylvestre, an understated but uniformly effective design from Belgium, easily claimed first place in the individual competition. The remaining six places were hotly contested and three solo rounds were run and averaged before the tie for sixth place was broken.

The Darling series created by Stephen Linhart smashed their competition with an interesting new offensive strategy.

As always, Eric Foley submitted a horde of tough fighters with clever icons (though Orb of Doom III appears fat and bloated, just as it performed relative to its younger cousin, Orb II). In addition, he provided two robots (Krulockh Lord and Power Penguin) to help beginning RoboWarriors learn the tricks of the trade. Krulockh Lord was the winning titan class entry from the fifth tournament. Power Penguin is a clone of Douglas Harris' invincible Pacifist Penguin (also known as the Boring Bird in certain circles). Both robots are documented to help novices.

The Titan and Little League class robots have been experimental in the fifth and sixth tournament. Unless there is any great interest in continuing either category, they will be phased out and the Seventh Tournament will focus on Individual, Team, and Icon contest entries. Please send a note to RoboWar Hindquarters if you are a fan of one of the experimental categories.
