

SHEP

A native of Africa, Shep set her sights on becoming an animal actor after seeing her first "Tarzan" movie at an early age and packed her trunk to seek fame and fortune in show business. A brief stint with the circus proved unfulfilling and Shep grew tired of all the clowning around. When a talent agent spotted her in the elephant chorus line, she was discovered and went on to become one of the "biggest" stars in the world. With that kind of success, she certainly doesn't work for peanuts anymore.