

Welcome to ReadPlease 2000

ReadPlease will read any text displayed on your screen. The text may come from your browser, e-mail, word processor, or spreadsheet - just about any Windows application.

You can type text directly into this window as well as use Cut, Copy and Paste. ReadPlease screens may be saved as text, or Rich Text Format. You may want to assemble ReadPlease text and save it for reading at a later date, or for review. And of course, printing is available with ReadPlease.

Be sure to take just 30 seconds to register ReadPlease on-line - just click on the button with the question mark below, and then select the Help tab. There is no charge for registering and you will receive updates and new and exciting tools that enhance ReadPlease even further.

Also, using the button with the question mark below, you can access several samples of how ReadPlease can be used. Select the Samples or the Challenge tab.

How to use ReadPlease:

- 1 Locate the text you want to have read
- 2 Select it with the mouse
- 3 Copy to the Windows Clipboard (Use Edit Copy, or the hotkey Control + C)
- 4 Launch ReadPlease, and Paste it into the ReadPlease window (Use Edit Paste, or the hotkey Control + V)
- 5 Press the ReadPlease Play button

There are many short cuts in ReadPlease to make this easier. For example, try out the Right Mouse button for several choices.

Note that ReadPlease will sit in your TRAY. That is the area down by the clock on the lower right of your Windows screen. You can click on the ReadPlease icon to activate it, or Right Mouse Click on the icon for more options. One option you will want to use right away, is the "Paste & Play". This will paste whatever is on the Windows clipboard into ReadPlease, and then it will be read to you. You don't even need to Activate ReadPlease.

Many ReadPlease users notice an improvement if they listen to ReadPlease with headphones rather than speakers.

For detailed instructions press button with the question mark on it below.

We hope you enjoy using ReadPlease - have fun.

MoneyTree Software Company