

Forms Set Value Contracts

These contracts set form element initial values.

There are contracts to initialize the content of dropdown lists. These contracts can also serve as examples of how you can make your own dropdown list box initialization contract.

The contract “Reset the value of [target] in ASP” is useful for resetting the value of a control (edit box) that is bound to a RecordSet field if you don’t want the user to see the value of that field. For example when the edit box is on an insert page.
