Appendix A Keyboards

The Macintosh LC is equipped with a new detached ADB keyboard called the Apple Keyboard II. The keyboard is detached and includes a numeric keypad. The domestic ANSI layout (with US legends) and the ISO layout (with International Z legends) of the Apple Keyboard II are shown in Figures A-1 and A-2, respectively. The major differences in the keyboard layout, when compared with the standard Macintosh keyboard, are in the positioning of the esc, caps lock, ctrl, and tilde keys.
