

Logging in or on is the process of getting approval and connecting to another computer on the Internet. This is required during FTP sessions, where you must connect to the other computer before downloading files. Also used to describe connecting to your Internet Service Provider.