Logging Off is the process of disconnecting from another computer on the Internet. This is normally done after you have finished doing what you want on a server. Also used to describe hanging up from your Internet Service Provider.