

If you followed last month's LiveMotion tutorial you will already know how to create a Web ad banner with some simple interactivity and animation, to export in Macromedia's Flash format. This has the advantage that you can create more exciting, interactive and adventures graphics within such a small space, and with file sizes significantly smaller than the banner-standard GIF.