

So use this page with a care, ingenuity and skill, and you're half way home already. The advantage of using an intro screen is you can give your visitors a quick-loading insight into what your site is about and who it's for - and keep them occupied - while a more fully-featured homepage downloads. If your site's about entertainment, give them an amusing, lively splash screen. If it's to promote your business, you can tell them your latest products, services or offers - even offer them hot links to info about these, bypassing your homepage completely.