

So, I guess this is all we can expect? Oh no! Over the next few months, expect even better software, some innovative tie-in's with software publishers and additional interface improvements. Our aim is to present you with the most fully functional interface, not only on a visual level, but on a practical level - as with the most effective Web sites, it's not just beauty that keeps customers coming back to your site, it's a combination of beauty and practicality.
