

Light Guard

Armed only with a measly blaster, this orange-breasted guard is the weakest enemy you'll find in the game.

Shotgun Guard

This green suited guard contains a scatter gun prosthetic attached to its right arm. Aim low in case they attempt to duck your fire.

Machine Gun Guard

The mightiest of all the guards, this black uniformed processed human uses a machine gun for a weapon. They tend to attack in packs so watch out.

Enforcer

A tough Strogg with a chain gun slammed into his arm. He can withstand quite a bit so use something powerful to knock him down. When you see his head blown off - he's dead - but make sure to leave the scene since there may be some muscle spasms left in his arm.

Gunner

This ugly cyborg is outfitted with two deadly weapons - a machine gun on one arm and a grenade launcher on the other. He's built pretty strong but you can beat him if you time it right just after he opens up his hand to use the gun.

Beserker

You thought the Gunner was mean, huh? The Beserker is equipped with a spike as one arm and a hammer as another. Keep a fair distance since he needs to be near you to do damage - and watch for his left hook. Don't blink or you'll end up flying back from his blow.

Iron Maiden

This femme fatale has both a rocket launcher and razor-sharp claws. She's a real bitch - to knock down - so don't underestimate her vicious charm.

Gladiator

Now we're kicking it up a notch. The Gladiator is one durable bastard so give him all you got. He's got two huge motorized legs and a shoulder-mounted railgun so he may move slowly, but once targeted, get the hell out of the way or you're history. Also keep an eye out for his major clamp as a left hand - or you will lose your eyes - and head - and torso -

Parasite

This four-legged creature has a life-sucking probe that shoots out from its back. To make matters worse, they like to rest in dark, wet places so be on the look out and aim low.

Medic

The good news is that this abomination crawls around and shoots lasers at you when you least expect it. The bad news is the Medic heals other wounded Stroggs so they can keep fighting. How nice.

Brains

As with the Berserker, stay clear away from this bad mutha. He's got tentacles protruding from his chest that will steal life from you. Don't let him trap you into a corner either - they don't call him Brains for nothing.

Barracuda Shark

Ever wanted to know what it feels like to be sliced from head to toe? If you let these mutant organisms near you - you'll soon find out. Even if you know how to swim real well - keep a weapon at close reach for these small and fast human feeders.

Technician

Look up to catch a glimpse of this gravity-defying robot, controlled by a large brain preserved in red fluid. He may be easy to target but it takes a lot to destroy him - not to mention he's heavily armed with a laser blaster, a sharp claw, and a prod that shocks its prey. Use the best you got to get past this floating disaster.

Mutant

This fast n' fierce radioactive beast is a result of the outpour of chemicals on Stroggos. He's much quicker than you and will tear flesh apart effortlessly, so don't waste your time using your blaster - it'll only make him more mad.

Flyer

Small and weak, but they travel in packs and are armed with laser blasters on each of their two wings. They are also fast little guys so don't hesitate with your fire.

Icarus

An absolutely deadly Strogg resident, who travels with the aid of a super-powered jetpack strapped to its back. The Icarus has laser blasters meshed into its shoulders and can sure take a beating so use nothing less than a rocket launcher to silence this cybernetic killer.

Tank

They can gib you with three lovely weapons so take your pick: an arm-mounted machine gun, a shoulder-mounted rocket launcher, and an arm-mounted blaster. Tanks are slow but they're insanely powerful and relentless.

Tank Commander

These giant tanks are similar to regular ones, but are manufactured to protect the Inner City. It's not recommended to let them see you unless you've got your plan of attack worked out.