1.2   Workbench Boot Pictures '95 - Introduction

Introduction
------------

This is actually the fourth series of Workbench Boot Pictures that I have released for the Amiga, and as you will see this series has a Windows '95 flavour to them!

Workbench Boot Pictures are simply a collection of 256 colour IFF pictures for use with Joseph Lunks fabulous utility 'BootScreen' and program alike (PicBoot), to display a nice start-up image while your Hard Disk is booting.

'BootScreen' is a program which allows you to display an IFF picture while the hard drive is booting, much like the Microsoft Windows logo on the IBM's.

I was influenced to draw these pictures after seeing the "rip-off" Microsoft Boot Pictures that were floating around and I thought the Amiga deserved it's own exclusive Boot Screens.

So, I started work on some Boot Pictures that was exclusively "Amiga", and related more to the Amiga OS, with this collection including pictures for the latest Aniga Operating System, AmigaOS 3.1.

These pictures were drawn by hand exclusively with Deluxe Paint V with colour touch ups and effects done with Art Department Professional 2.1.3.

Although these pictures were designed in mind of OS 3.1 users, you may change the OS and Release numbers to suit your own system (Please read conditions in Copyright).

Hope you enjoy them :-)

1.3 Workbench Boot Pictures '95 - Description

Description

Bellow is a brief description of of the images included in this release of Workbench Boot Pictures Volume #3:

WBBP95-Boot1.iff Clouds background with AmigaOS Logo
WBBP95-Boot2.iff Clouds background with the Win95 Start Button
WBBP95-Boot3.iff Clouds background with AmigaOS Logo & pointing arrows

Total 3 pictures.

1.4 Workbench Boot Pictures '95 - Requirements

Requirements

To use these pictures you will need:

* Either A1500/A2000/A2500/A3000 (Fitted with AGA screenmode compliant graphic cards)
   or A1200/A4000

* OS 2.0 or better

* A Hard Disk

* 'BootScreen' Version 2.2+ by Joseph Luk.

'BootScreen' is available on Aminet in the utils/boot directory.

1.5   Workbench Boot Pictures '95 - Installation

Installation
------------

Firstly, if you have not done so already, you will need to install
'BootScreen', follow the instructions accompanied with the program related the Install procedure.

After extracting the WB_BootPics95.lha file (well you must of got this far if you are reading this guide!...), you will see a number of .IFF files, choose the pictures you want and copy them to your SYS:Prefs/Presets directory. You can do this from the CLI by typing;

    copy <path containing WB_BootPics3 directory> SYS:Prefs/Presets

Or alternatively using a Disk Management Program Like Directory Opus.

After copying these files, load the BootScreen Prefs program in the Prefs directory of your SYS: partition and choose the desired Boot Screen Picture. You can choose the 'Test' Gadget to preview the picture you want, then press 'Save' for BootScreen to save your options.

And thats all there is to it!

So next time you boot you machine, your desired boot picture will be displayed.

1.6   Workbench Boot Pictures '95 - Acknowledgments

Acknowledgments
---------------

I would like to thank Joseph Luk for producing a fabulous program andto all the authors of similar programs

I would also like to thank all the Amiga users out there in their kind feedback and suggestions on my previous three distributions of Workbench

Boot Pictures for the Amiga.

I would also like to thank Urban Mueller at Aminet for making my pictures publically available on the bimonthly Aminet CD's.
