General

All licences are royalty-free. Applications developed with the purchased software can be sold by their developers without any further owings to Jenex being incurred. All purchased software comes with full license details. Please indicate whether you want your product mailed to you in 3.5" media (S/H charges apply) or if you want to use the Internet.

Single User License

This license is for standalone developers or small companies (less than 10 employees.) One license is required per developer.

Single User With Source Code License

As above, but with full source code. The source code can be modified and used in developed programs but can not be resold either as standalone components or as part of a component package of any nature.

Corporate Site License

For larger companies. For a single price, the purchaser can distribute the components to as many of its developers as it sees fit. They also receive the source code but are subject to the same restrictions as the Single User With Source Code License.
