Help file produced by HELLLP!, a product of Guy Software, on 4/28/95 for J. D. FULKERSON.

The above table of contents will be automatically completed and will also provide an excellent cross-reference for context strings and topic titles. You may leave it as your main table of contents for your help file, or you may create your own and cause it to be displayed instead by using the I button on the toolbar. This page will not be displayed as a topic. It is given a context string of `__` and a HelpContextID property of 32517, but these are not presented for jump selection.

HINT: If you do not wish some of your topics to appear in the table of contents as displayed to your users (you may want them ONLY as PopUps), move the lines with their titles and contexts to below this point. If you do this remember to move the whole line, not part. As an alternative, you may wish to set up your own table of contents, see Help under The Structure of a Help File.

INTRODUCTION

I started collecting a list of World Wide Web sites, I asked other surfers, found references in Newspapers, Books, and Magazines. This listing is the continuing result. This is the shareware version and contains 102 listings in various catagories. I included useful as well as fun sites to visit. For the most complete listing with well over 300 listings please send $7.00 to J.D. Fulkerson, 2221 W. Mohawk Ln., Phoenix, AZ 85027. For $10.00 I will send a major update six months after you register.

Regarding this listing: I have not checked all of the information, nor have I visited each site, so I assume no responsibility for it's accuracy or what you find there. I also assume no responsibility for your use of this listing or what you do on the Web. Use at your own risk. The fact that a listing appears is not to be considered an endorsement or advertisment, they are presented for information purposes only. If you do find something that needs correcting, or you want to share some of your favorite sites, please E-mail me at jdfulkersn@aol.com.
