reen Mountain Software, producers of DOCMaker, is proud to release their new version of the award winning software package.   DOCMaker version 4.5 expands on a solid foundation of providing a reliable and easy to use stand-alone document authoring system.   New features allow designers of electronic documentation to create truly impressive presentations.   Apple Event savy documents now may act as slide shows and web page initiators for other products such as NetScape and Mosaic.   Drag and drop and text selection in the documents is now possible, allowing readers of your documents to grab portions of the information they need.   New navigation buttons and controls make your final document a multi-media experience for your readers.
