HTML Sample Documents

Java Script It! comes with a set of HTML documents that allow you to view what the different applications within Java Script It! can do for your web pages. These samples contain most of the combinations that the various applications can perform as well as provide tips on how to use the various applications effectively.

The HTML sample documents can be found in the 'html' folder of the directory that Java Script It! was installed to. An example of where they can be found is "c:\Program Files\Java Script It!\html\").

To use the HTML sample documents, load the "start.htm" file into your browser.

Note that not all applications will work in every browser or some functions may behave differently from browser to browser. This is caused by bugs or shortcomings in each browser and not by Java Script It!
