

Example

COLLABORATORS

	TITLE : Example
ACTION	NAME	DATE	SIGNATURE
WRITTEN BY		April 12, 2022

REVISION HISTORY

NUMBER	DATE	DESCRIPTION	NAME

Contents

1	Example	1
1.1	main	1

Chapter 1

Example

1.1 main

This is an example of the simple "list" of menu options:

- Chapter One, Part 1
- Chapter One, Part 2
- Chapter One, Part 3
- Chapter Two, Part 1
- Chapter Two, Part 2
- Chapter Two, Part 2.1
- About the author

A better implementation of the above would be:

- Chapter One, Part 1
- Chapter One, Part 2
- Chapter One, Part 3
- Chapter Two, Part 1
- Chapter Two, Part 2
- Chapter Two, Part 2.1
- About The Author

You can improve the presentation by "indenting" the list by one tab:

- Chapter One, Part 1
- Chapter One, Part 2
- Chapter One, Part 3
- Chapter Two, Part 1
- Chapter Two, Part 2
- Chapter Two, Part 2.1
- About The Author

You also try centering the link text inside the link button (this is the type of menu used in the AmigaGuide.guide):

Chapter One, Part 1

Chapter One, Part 2

Chapter One, Part 3

Chapter Two, Part 1

Chapter Two, Part 2

Chapter Two, Part 2.1

About The Author

Another example is the "hanging indent" system (With or without centering):

Chapter One

Part 1

Part 2

Part 3

Chapter Two

Part 1

Part 2

Part 2.1

Apendices

About The Author

As you can see, there are a lot of way's to present your menu's! Don't think that this is the definitive list either, there are alway's new way's of doing something (a variation on the "indented" menu, where the links are centered down the screen, for instance). Just keep your eye's open for new ideas, and if that you can do better than the examplea above, then try it!
