Save a Picture in a File or Document

If you started HP PictureScan from within the HP PicturePlace software, you will be prompted to provide a filename after you click Accept and the final scan occurs.   The picture is saved in a file and appears as the selected thumbnail, or miniature picture, in HP PicturePlace.   You can then put the picture into a document.

If you started HP PictureScan from inside a word processor or presentations program, the program might not save the picture in a file.   Instead, after you click Accept and the final scan occurs, it might simply put the picture into your document.
