The Action Pack Icon Collection - Vol. 1

Introduction:

I recently contracted a disease... Xenaitis. I started watching the program one day in March and instead of changing the channel five minutes into the show, I kept watching. From that moment on I was hooked. The Xena episode I happened to catch was "A Day in the Life" and man was it GOOD! So began my acent into the fandom of the Xenaverse (the Xena universe). I went to the web to look up everything I could find about the warrior princess. I found episode guides, pictures, stories, sounds and more. I made up my mind right there to put my icon talents to work and pump out a set of icons based on Xena (and later on Hercules as well).

It was difficult at first due to the fact that this is my first set of icons based on references of real people and not cartoons or made-up creations. Its tough capturing the "look" of someone, especially in a 32x32 square. As you'll see in the set, some icons capture the look better than others... especially Gabrielle and Herc. Watch for more icons based on these two shows in the near future.

Thanks:

I wanted to say thanks to a key person, my best friend and girlfriend Mindy who puts up with me making icons all the time, instead of paying attention to her like I oughta be! I would also like to say thanks to all my former co-workers at networkMCI. They are without doubt, the most talented and creative group of people I've ever worked with. I miss them dearly.
