Version 1.1 of Thieves and Kings is distributed via "shareware". A notice will appear when the game is started explaining the terms and conditions of its use.

The program includes two solitaires: Forty Thieves and Kings Corners. The rules and strategies of both solitaires are described in the game under the "Help" menu.

This file should be distributed within a set of three files:

THINGS.EXE
THINGS.HLP
THINGS.TXT

If you are missing the first file, you will not be able to run the program. If you are missing the second file, you will not be able to run Help within the game. THIS is the third file, so you must have it.

To install the game, copy all three files to a directory on your hard disk, then make an icon for the game in one of your Windows program groups (such as "Games").

There are at least a few ways to create the icon in your program group. One is to use the program manager to locate the THINGS.EXE file and "drag" its icon to your "Games" program group. For more information on creating icons, refer to your Microsoft Windows manual.

We hope you enjoy the game!
