

Shinto and everyday life

The importance of Shinto in the everyday lives of its believers can hardly be overestimated. Just as kami may be found in the things around us - trees, plants, rivers - so daily life is seen as interacting with the spirit world all the time. Also, the worship of ancestors encourages followers of Shinto to regard spirits as being close to them.