AAIR0102.GIF	419274	02-17-94	This once "Top Secret" Lockheed SR-71 "Blackbird" sits in a hanger at Beale AFB on Jan 26th, 1990. The day it was retired from active duty in the USAF (portions of this aircraft STILL remain highly classified!)
AAIR0103.GIF	506197	02-18-94	USAF Reserve McDonnell Douglas F-4E "Pantom II's" from the 942nd Tactical Fighter Group based at Bergstrom AFB, wait their turn to carry out aerial refueling from a USAF McDonnell Douglas KC-10 extender. The F-4E can acquire designated track and destroy ground targets by laser, infrared, and electro-optically guided weapons, day or night, in ANY weather!
AAIR0104.GIF	513395	02-18-94	Here, the past escorts the present as a USAF Rockwell B-1 bomber is in a hard-bank turn with a Convair/GD F-106 "Delta Dart" near Edwards AFB. Both aircraft at the time, were assigned to DET 15, a part of the Aircraft Management Division for testing evaluation. A supersonic all-weather interceptor, the F-106 was the primary interceptor aircraft in the USAF throughout the 60's and 70's. The B-1 bomber is still in the USAF inventory and will be well into the 21st century!

AAIR0105.GIF	478993	02-18-94	A USMC McDonnell Douglas AV-8B "Harrier" based at Yuma MCAS, positions itself behind a tanker aircraft. The AV-8B is a V/STOL attack jet aircraft utilizing a vectored thrust, Rolls-Royce Pegasus turbofan engine. The normal mode of employment is short take-off which requires only 300-1200 feet of ground roll. Landings are vertical.
AAIR0106.GIF	409140	02-18-94	A USN Grumman E-2C "Hawkeye" from Miramar Naval Air Station Fleet Replacement Squadron, performs field carrier-landing practices at El Centro Naval Air Facility. At mission altitude, the E-2C is capable of detecting targets anywhere within a three-million-cubic-mile surveillance envelope while simultaneously monitoring maritime traffic. The E-2C can also maintain all weather patrols, tracking automatically and simultaneously more than 600 targets and controlling more than 40 airborne intercepts.
AAIR0107.GIF	412362	02-18-94	A USN Grumman A-6E "Intruder" from Oceana Naval Air Station is on the ramp at El Centro Naval Air Facility. Several versions of the A-6 medium-attack, all-weather, day & night, carrier-based aircraft have served as a mainstay for more than two decades for the Navy & Marines.

INVRC501.ARJ	508588	08-26-93	InVircible Anti-Virus, Version 5.01 (January 30, 1993). This anti-virus software is much more sophisticated and effective than any other anti-virus product available or anticipated. It is the only anti-virus package able to state that every single virus in the three known virus classes (Boot Sector, FAT/Directory, Executables) has been to date detected and removed -- a track record that dates back to the Autumn of 1990! InVircible implements Adaptive Expert System (AES) technology that is uncanny in the ability to absolutely detect viruses and then completely and exactly restore the infected executables, and doing this without needing to "know" or "name" the infecting virus. AES technology omits the need to obtain regular "updates", and it omits the need to move your executables, and it omits the need to run a TSR or device driver, and it omits the need to install a hardware card, and it omits the need to worry about whether your anti-virus software "knows" the specific virus bugging your PC. Once InVircible secures an executable, you will absolutely know whether it has been attacked by a virus. The Shareware edition of InVircible is identical to the full version. Shareware InVircible gives the information needed to delete and replace infected executables. The full version adds the option to completely restore infected executables 99.99+% of the time (close to being perfect!). All restorations are exact, so you can't tell that a virus infection had occurred! A scanner (which AES technology does not depend on) that doesn't need updating is included for those common viruses with a name. InVircible is effective against polymorphic, mutating, encrypted, and compound virus attacks. If an impeccable track record dating back to 1990 sounds better than promises of effectiveness and perpetual purchases of "updates", then InVircible is for you.
