

The huge pyramids lie to the West. But the causeway and outer wall prevent access other than through the temple. The rest of the city appears to be doing quite well considering the state of the rest of the valley. The temple's monks do a good job of keeping monsters out. The whole city seems to exude magic.