

The Pharaoh is feared dead, but no one dares take money from his treasury. Besides, it is protected by powerful magic and a gate. The bank guards do not have much to do any more, they look as though they are itching for some action.