BoB National

BoB National is a shared off-air recording and media archive. BoB (short for Box of Broadcasts) provides staff and students with online access to television and radio programmes from the previous seven days, as well as allowing users to book recordings for broadcasts seven days in advance, from more than 50 television and radio channels. Users may also search thousands of programmes stored in the growing archive.

Subscribers can compile playlists of extracts or full titles for personal use or to share with other staff and students. Searches can be run by title or keyword and the BoB National archives are held indefinitely for access by all registered users.

To find out more about subscribing visit the BoB National website (opens in new window).

For the latest BoB National news see the BoB Blog.

Click here to download a poster with details about the BoB National service in A3 and A4 formats.

BoB National was developed by the BUFVC, Cambridge Imaging Systems and Bournemouth University. Subscription is limited to institutions holding a valid ERA Plus licence.
