

Activity 1

The table below contains a list of tutors' perceptions about how students respond to, and engage with the feedback they receive. Please tick the relevant box if you think these perceptions are true or false.

Staff believe that:	True	False	Reality
Students tend to only read the marks
Students receive different amounts of feedback depending on the quality of their work
Students usually get their work back in time to do something with it
Students usually get lots of feedback on what they are doing
Students are less likely to take note of any feedback if they get a high mark.
Students receive a different type of feedback depending on the quality of their work
Students do not read the feedback carefully and try to understand what it is saying
Students do not use the feedback to go back over what they have done in the assignment
Students do not commit to work if it is not assessed
