Zingy lemon curd in an almond butter crust. This lemon tart was quite good. One could taste the lemon taste consistently throughout. The almond butter crust was also nice with a distinct almond butter taste. Attractive presentation.

This cake had a nice texture due to its layered nature. The lower white layer was creamy mousse, the middle layer was a moist sponge cake and the top layer was strawberry mousse. The combination of the laver was quite creative.

This cupcake was quite good because the base was moist and had a nice lemon aroma and taste. The icing had a meringue texture and lemon taste, however the Habitù logo was made of plastic instead of thin chocolate. so this is poor use of ingredients.
