About The Directory

Nationwide research and constant updating have helped to make the NSSF Directory of Public Shooting Facilities the most comprehensive listing of shooting ranges and gun clubs available to the Public. This directory has been designed with one purpose in mind: to provide you with accurate, up-to-date and informative listings of where you can shoot, whether you are looking for a trap, skeet or sporting clays club, a basic range to sight in for the deer season, or a place to introduce the family to the shooting sports.

Since shooting facilities can vary from range to range, this directory incorporates selection screens that illustrate the types of shooting available at each location, from sporting clays to metallic silhouette. In addition to directions to each club, we have also included a contact name and phone number. With various facilities and hours of operation changing on a seasonal basis at many clubs and ranges, it is always a good idea to call ahead.

Every effort has been made to find and list all shooting facilities that are open to the public, or that have memberships available. If we have missed one, please let us know and we will be sure to include it in the next edition of the directory.

What Is NSSF

The National Shooting Sports Foundation is the shooting industrys trade organization ... and more.

Since 1961 our mission has been to promote a better understanding of and more active participation in the shooting sports. We take a varied approach in fulfilling this mission.

Brief descriptions of some of our more than 25 programs are found below. These programs are funded by dues from our 1,200 members from all segments of the shooting sports industry.

With your NSSF membership, you become an important part of these programs and assist us in expanding them for the benefit of future sportsmen and women.

NSSF At Work For You

NSSF helps ensure a positive future for the shooting sports through programs that educate and support new shooters and encourage those who already enjoy the sports to participate more often.

Through positive publicity and education programs, NSSF strives to present the facts about recreational shooting to the non-shooting public, promoting a better understanding our sports and participants.

Your membership will support promotions, events and programs that will have a direct and positive impact on your business.

What Is New In The Shooting Sports

From old-time hunters, to women who are swinging a shotgun for the first time, from family fun to the Olympic Games, the shooting sports are becoming one of Americas favorite new pastimes. Whether you are a shotgun, rifle, or handgun enthusiast or like to shoot then all do not miss out on the fun offered by todays shooting games.

Status of the Shooting Sports

As over 15 million Americans have discovered, there is a new sense of action and excitement in the world of shooting sports, from games that can help a novice hunter become a top-notch wing-shooter, to events that challenge all around shooting skills, including those in rifle, handgun, and shotgun. Whether it is practice for the hunting season, recreational shooting with friends or family, or competition, there is bound to be a shooting game today that is right up your alley.

Sporting Clays

With an expanded line-up, it is not surprising that the shooting sports are attracting a new, and growing audience. Sporting clays, which has been described, as close as it gets to bird shooting without bird dogs or feathers, has brought more than several million wingshooteres over to the clay target side of the sport. I started shooting sporting, noted one veteran hunter, to sharpen my eye for the season. Now, I have gotten hooked on the game itself and shoot it all year-round. Sporting clays has also been great practice for my grandson, who just started hunting last year. For more information on sporting clays, and other clay target such as trap and skeet, you can contact the National Sporting Clays Association, Sporting Clays of America, Amateur Trapshooting Association and the National Skeet Shooting Association.

Women In The Shooting Sports

While many more hunters have been bitten by the shooting sports bug, shooting is also attracting a whole new breed of enthusiasts. Women now represent the fastest growing segment in shooting sports participation. According to American Sports Data, the number of women, for example, shooting sporting clays doubled in just one year, going from some 200,000 in 1990 to over 425,000 in 1991. Women are more sports oriented then ever before, says Sue King, Executive Director of the Womens Shooting Sports Foundation, and many women have found that shooting is an ideal sport for them. It does not require unusual size or strength, and its an outdoor activity they can enjoy with the whole family. The Womens Shooting Sports Foundation has a variety of programs designed to help women get started in shooting.

Chevy Truck Sportsmans Team

Reflecting a new trend of combining various shooting disciplines, the Chevy Truck Sportsmans Team Challenge provides an opportunity for shooters of all skill levels to test their all around abilities in a series of unique rifle, handgun and shotgun courses of fire. Preview Sportsmans Team Challenge events at many of the listed clubs are great way to get started in the challenging shooting game where three person teams compete in all events. You can learn more about the Sportsmans Team Challenge by writing the National Shooting Sports Foundation.

Youth Education Programs

We work with youth groups such as the Boy Scouts of America and 4-H to enhance their shooting education programs and competitions. Firearms safety educational materials are provided to these groups as well as to hunter educators, teachers, and police community relations officers, often at no charge. Articles about hunting and recreational shooting - always with an emphasis on safety - have been placed annually in magazines such as Boys Life and New Horizons.

It is unfortunate that youngsters usually do not hear much about the role of the sportsman in our nations conservation successes, and that their attitudes about hunting are often influenced by incorrect or inaccurate information. Our educational video programs tell the story of how many native animal species have been rescued from the brink of extinction and the importance of preserving wildlife habitat through sportsmen-supported funding. Since 1980, NSSF has fulfilled requests for these programs from over 100,000 teachers across the country, reaching millions of youngsters with the facts about hunting and conservation. Although many of these youngsters may not become hunters themselves, they will at least be better informed about the sport and more likely to be supportive of conservation goals.

Summer Biathlon

Summer Biathlon is one of the NSSFs most innovative and successful programs. Essentially a new sport combining running and target shooting (much as Winter Biathlon combines skiing and shooting). Summer Biathlon has grown into a popular sport, with a national team, national sponsorship and thousands of participants across the country. Control of the Summer Biathlon program was recently granted to the United States Biathlon Association, a governing body for the Olympic Games.

National Hunting & Fishing Day

A program designed and sponsored by NSSF, NHF Day continues to be most effective in introducing the outdoor sports, encouraging participation and in pointing out all the good things sportsman have done for conservation. The focus of this national event is to attract new people to participate in these sports, and each year thousands do just that - taking to fields, ranges and streams across the country, and realizing all the fun they have been missing.

Competition

NSSFs nationally-televised Chevy Truck Sportsmans Team Challenge encourages shooters to participate in similar preview events held across the country throughout the year. Because this unique combination event demands excellence in pistol, rifle and shotgun shooting, it encourages shooters to cross-train, developing new skills. Experienced shooters discover new challenges. Three-person teams can set their sights on the annual national championship event held in Ft. Lauderdale, Florida.

Image Enhancement

The concerns of the non-shooting public must not be ignored. Their understanding of the shooting sports is vitally important. Our goal is to be sensitive to those concerns while also providing the facts about the shooting sports.

Public Relations

Television, radio and print are used to bring the NSSFs series of news releases and public service announcements to the public. Our video news releases (pre-packaged clips designed to be incorporated into other programs like the news and outdoor shows) have featured conservation success stories, shooting sports events which usually go uncovered (such as the Grand American Handicap Trap Shooting Tournament and our own Summer Biathlon) and other happenings which showcase the shooting sports.

Womens Shooting Sports Foundation

Over the past five years, women have been discovering the shooting sports in increasing numbers - in fact, they represent the fastest growing part of the shooting market. To recognize and support women shooters, the NSSF funded and helped form the Womens Shooting Sports Foundation (WSSF), a non-profit organization dedicated to advancing women shooters interests. WSSFs highly successful Ladies Charity Classic and Couples Cup events provide competitive venues for shooters of all skill levels. The NSSF also funds a Becoming An Outdoors Woman seminar series, which offers woman across the country an opportunity to learn hunting and outdoor skills.

Promotional Material

NSSF produces a wide range of promotional material, covering firearms safety and responsibility, the hunters role in conservation, hunting ethics, and sportsmanship. Technical data and guides to ranges and hunting resorts are also available. A variety of pamphlets and posters are designed to help clubs and ranges increase membership and participation. A catalog of NSSF literature and videotapes is available on request.

Retailer Commercials

NSSF helps its dealer-members reach more customers by making inexpensive television commercials available exclusively to them. This allows members to utilize cost-effective local TV advertising without the expense of producing their own commercials.

Showing By Example

Nothing promotes shooting better than the opportunity to watch someone have a good time while doing it. NSSF sponsored television programs like ESPNs Shooting Sports America series bring the fun and excitement of the shooting sports to a national TV audience. Fast-paced and colorful, the Chevy Truck Sportsmans Team Challenge and Summer Biathlon are ideal for television coverage and have been seen by millions of viewers on news and sports shows.

Three of Our Current and Most Successful Video Programs Are:

- The Un-Endangered Species
- What They Say About Hunting
- Wildlife for Tomorrow

The Un-Endangered Species

Geared for high school students, this half hour program shows how sportsmen-sponsored wildlife management programs have restored five American game species to healthy, abundant populations. It drives home the point that these species were restored by wildlife conservation programs that utilize hunting and which are paid for by hunters.

What They Say About Hunting

Also geared for high school students, this program highlights the positions taken on hunting by a variety of conservation and outdoor-oriented agencies, such as the National Wildlife Federation, the Sierra Club and the Friends of Animals. Students are made aware of the pro-hunting positions taken by most groups, and of the facts about regulated hunting and the hunters role in wildlife management programs

Wildlife for Tomorrow

A highly acclaimed presentation which fulfills many of the same goals as Un-Endangered Species, but is intended for younger audiences.

Other Windows Products for Shooters

The manual you are currently using is based upon a subset of a much larger database on shooting activities.

Also, this manual is passive. That is, you may view data of preconstructed screens, but you cannot enter data nor have the program perform tasks specific to your individual shooting needs.

PC Proxy, Inc. offers another Windows based product that greatly enlarges the scope of support. In addition to making the entire database accessible, it interacts with you to enhance your enjoyment of the shooting sports.

This product is named Lock, Stock, and Barrel (LSAB). As the name suggests, it encompasses all aspects of shooting.

See the following for further information:

Product Scope

Order Form

Product Scope

LSAB address the needs of shooters in reloading, range activities, and shooter utilities.

It amasses huge amounts of data from almost every vendor of reloading supplies, organizes it, and avails it to the user through a simple point and click interface.

In most cases, LSAB supports full interchange of units. For example, it is as easy to deal with firearm trajectories in meters as in yards.

For reloaders, LSAB supports:

- Shotgun reloading
- Rifle/pistol reloading
- Customization

For shooters, LSAB supports:

- Shotgun Skeet and Trap Shooting
- Graphic, theoretical shotgun patterning
- Rifle/pistol trajectories
- Rifle/pistol group recording and analysis

In addition, LSAB provides a sophisticated set of utilities.

LSAB is extendable. That is, the base system is designed to easily accept future shooting related addons. While the original purchase price is extremely low, future addons will be even less because the entire system need not be repurchased. See candidate addons for examples of what we envision for the future.

LSAB makes full use of the Windows Help Facility, employing on line, context sensitive help with hypertext links to aid in usage. But then, you have already seen this in action with the manual you are currently using.

Shotgun Reloading

- Support for 5 gauges (410 through 10 gauge) with tens of thousands of load combinations from numerous vendors of hulls, primers, powders, and wads.
- Automatic recommendations for powder bushings for many popular reloaders.
- Automatic calculation of recoil.
- Automatic, sophisticated estimates of reload costs based upon your actual costs.
- Graphic, theoretical patterning for reloads.
- Support for user defined components and reload tables.

Rifle or Pistol Reloading

- Support for hundreds of cartridges (rifle, pistol, and single shot pistol) with tens of thousands of load combinations from numerous vendors of hulls, primers, powders and bullets.
- Graphic selections of powders and velocities.
- Automatic recommendations for powder bushings and shell holders for many popular reloaders.
- Automatic calculation of recoil.
- Automatic, sophisticated estimates of reload costs based upon your own component purchases.
- Support for user defined components and reload tables.

Shotgun Skeet and Trap Shooters

- Support for multiple shooters.
- Maintains detailed records for leagues, registered birds, practice, etc.
- Computes averages and long runs.
- Provides shooting analysis with problem stations/birds identified.
- Maintains records for any time period, including multiple years.

Shotgun Patterning

- Graphic presentations.
- Standard or custom chokes.
- Target patterning at custom ranges with custom circle sizes.
- Percentages and pellet counts for patterns.

Rifle or Pistol Trajectories

- Selection from numerous standard sights, or creation of custom sights.
- Automatic selection of bullet ballistic coefficients.
- Easy, complete firearm/reload calibration process.
- Simple firearm rezero capabilities, with impact errors at any range easily determined.
- Both graphic and tabular presentations of trajectories.
- Considerations for atmospheric conditions, wind, point blank range, and inclination angles.

Rifle or Pistol Group Recording and Analysis

- Groups recorded and recallable for a single firearm or collected firearm/reload combinations.
- Automatic calculations of median, average, best, and worst groups.

Utilities

- Create and track address book entries.

  The preconfigured address book contains numerous vendor addresses of interest to shooters.
- Create and track correspondence.

  Several preconfigured letters allow the user to request information from vendors.
- Perform numerous unit transformations. e.g., Meters to yards, feet per second to miles per hour.
- Perform shooting unique calculations such as compute recoil, compute bullet ballistic coefficients, etc.

Candidate Addons

LSAB is a full featured package as delivered. That is, it supports a multitude of activities in shooting and reloading for handguns, rifles, and shotguns.

However, for every feature made a part of the base LSAB, there was another feature that would have been useful. At some point we had to cut off additional features if the product was ever to get to market.

Examples of useful features that were not included with the initial package are:

- Support for steel shot loads.
- Support for black powder shooting.
- Support for sporting clays.
- Event management (registration, score keeping, and recording for shooting competition).
- Federal Firearms License rules and book keeping requirements.
- Databases of shooting sites and facilities.
- Databases of registered shooters.
- Databases of mail order houses offering shooting supplies.
- Databases of state and federal public hunting preserves.
- Databases of topo maps with order placing facilities.
- Databases of factory ammunition from each vendor.
- Databases of annual records for shooting organizations.
- Complete specifications for cartridge dimensions.
- Rule books for various shooting organizations.
- A glossary of firearm and shooting terms.
- The list goes on and on.

In addition, vendors are constantly updating their components and reloading tables. It is highly desirable to be able to distribute updates without redistributing the entire package.

For these reasons, LSAB was structured as a base package which would accept after-market additions. i.e., Addons.

The LSAB developers will offer additional features as they are developed.

In addition, vendors of shooting related products will be offered program support for creating Addons in support of their own products. For example, sight manufacturers can add specifications for their line of sights, firearm manufacturers can add descriptions of their firearms, ammunition manufacturers can add descriptions of their factory ammunition, reloader manufacturers can add descriptions of their loaders and bushings, etc.

Customization

LSAB supplies a generous database of reloading components and reloading tables. However complete any initial product might be, there will come a time when you will want to enter your own components and construct reload definitions from other sources.

You may define reloading components and/or construct reloading tables. After this, those components will be available through the normal sequence of constructing reloads, setting costs, etc.

You may define you own:

Shotgun:

- Wads
- Hulls
- Reloading Tables

Rifle/Pistol:

- Cartridges
- Bullets
- Reloading Tables

Common:

- Primers
- Powders
- Reloaders

System Requirements

To use LSAB you need:

- A 3 1/2, 1.44 MB floppy disk drive.
- An IBM® compatible personal computer with an 80386sx, 80386, or higher processor (80486/50 or higher is recommended).
- A hard disk with 20 megabytes (MB) of free space.
- Six MB of random-access memory (8 MB or more is recommended)
- A Microsoft Mouse or other compatible pointing device.
- A Windows compatible printer.
- An EGA, VGA, or compatible display (VGA or higher is recommended).
- Microsoft MS-DOS® version 3.1 or later (MS-DOS version 5.0 or later is recommended) and Microsoft Windows version 3.1 or Windows 95.
